

SAINT FOR THE JOURNALIST

Pope Plus IX. Fifty Years Ago, selected St. Francis De Sales as Their Patron.

It will be news to many journalists to learn that they have an officially selected patron saint. But the Manchester Guardian points out that they have, and have had for the last fifty years. Plus IX, at the request of a number of continental journalists, issued a decree on the point. He recommended journalists to seek the help of St. Francis de Sales, whose body had recently been transferred with great pomp and amidst popular rejoicing in a new church at Annecy, in Savoy, his native place. The choice, our contemporary thinks, was an apt one, for St. Francis was a man of letters, his famous work, "The Devout Life" is still popular, "no doubt because of the lightness of touch with which he writes and the unerring instinct to one may putting of the work of a which he compels attention questions by the skill of his eloquence and illustration."

Expensive Slip.

A man was hurrying up de Passy, Paris, when falling forward dashed through the window of a wine shop. The proprietor rushed out to see the price of his window and a large crowd gathered to see fair play. The man who had broken the window asserted that he had no money "Search him!" shouted some one in the crowd. There were no persons about so the wine-shop keeper and a few friends took the law into their own hands, searched the man's pockets and found a £20 note.

ways felt that we of the have about the best of in the United States," a man who is in New York I am willing to admit now that we play the part of the "goat" in the big deal.

You will never know the significance of the term "iron dollars" until you have carried the big wheels around in your pocket," he continued. "And you will doubtless never carry the cumbersome coin as long as the good-natured western brother consents to do with that part of the currency in the 12 months that I have been in the country. I haven't had my hands on an iron dollar, and I'm not homesick for the sight of one. When I return I am going to try to carry enough paper to last me until I come back again."

A GOOD TIME ON "THE TRAIL"

PLENTY OF FUN BOOKED AT TULSA, OCT. 22-NOV. 1.

Amusement Section of Dry-Farming Congress Named For Noted Author.

Like every other world's fair and great exposition, the International Dry-Farming Congress at Tulsa, Oklahoma, October 22 to November 1, will have its boulevard of amusements and concessions. In this instance it will be known as the "Irving Trail," bringing to mind the historical "Tour of the Plains" by Washington Irving in 1832.

Washington Irving passed through the present townsite of Tulsa on this tour and camped on the Lost City hills overlooking the Arkansas river and valley.

On the Irving Trail will be assembled the greatest aggregation of high class shows and wholesome amusement ever seen in Oklahoma. The attractions will line both sides of the trail, and at night the boulevard fun and frolic will be a blaze of electric illumination.

Among the feature attractions on the avenue will be one of the greatest carnival companies in America; a wonderful congress of cowboys, cowgirls and Indians participating in the sports and pastimes of frontier life in the west, and a typical Osage Indian village, containing in primitive surroundings hundreds of men, women and children of this richest tribe of Indians on earth.

Flashing uniforms and martial music will also be marked features of the Congress and Exposition. One of the best concert bands in the country will furnish daily music. The United States government is sending the artillery band of forty pieces from Fort Sill, Oklahoma, one of the finest military bands in the service, to Tulsa for the entire ten days. A big detachment of United States troops from Fort Logan H. Roots, Arkansas, will act as military escort to visiting governors, senators, congressmen and foreign dignitaries and will be seen in daily maneuvers on the exposition grounds.

THE P. & O. CANTON

Star Disc Harrow

The bearings are fast-proof and are provided with wood bushings. As a result all wear is concentrated upon these wood parts which cost but a trifle and are easily renewed, though it is seldom necessary to do so.

Owing to the facilities for oiling the bearings they won't run dry. You take out the oil plugs which are in the bottom of the weight boxes, the most accessible place to put them, and fill the oil ducts—they hold a lot of oil, too—then forget about them. The feed is just right and the harrow will run easily without more attention for a long time. These oil ducts are simply holes cast in the standards, the lower ends of which form the top sections of the bearings. It is a simple and effective arrangement.

Don't overlook the scrapers—they are one of the fine points on this harrow. A harrow defective in this respect, though perfect in every other, is often useless. Remember this and examine those on the Canton Star. They are made to sweep across the faces of the discs from center to the outer edges, and each blade has a pressure spring to hold it firmly against the disc and yet let it flexible.

If you prefer, the Canton Star Harrow can be equipped with a Seeding Attachment for Broadcasting or Drilling.

It is just as good as the harrow, too.
